Gianluca Misuraca is a former Senior Scientist at the European Commission's Joint Research Centre in Seville, where, from January 2009 until August 2020, coordinated research in the area of Digital Governance and Social Innovation, leading policy support in the field of Digital Government Transformation, and acting as AI Watch Task Leader on Artificial Intelligence for the Public Sector.

Gianluca is currently a strategic policy advisor on Digital Governance, Technology Diplomacy and Human-Centric Artificial Intelligence, and he is acting as Team Leader for the EU-funded facility support project for an "International alliance for a human-centric approach to Artificial Intelligence" (IA-AI).

Since 1st October 2020 Gianluca is also a Research Fellow at the Department of eGovernance and Administration of the Danube University in Krems (DUK), Austria and a Special Advisor to the Task Force on Democracy in the Digital Age of Re-Imagine Europa (RIE).

Before joining the European Commission, Gianluca was the Managing Director of the Executive Master in eGovernance at the Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne (EPFL) conducted in cooperation with prestigious academic and policy institutions in Asia, Europe and North America.

During his career he held several positions as policy advisor for different International Organisations, including the United Nations General Secretariat, Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UNDESA), various cooperation agencies and consulting in the area of Public Sector Reform, eGovernment, regional development, international cooperation and research and innovation.

Gianluca's background is economics and business administration, with focus on the interface between ICTs and public sector innovation. He holds a Diploma of Specialisation in High Level Studies in EU Economics and Law, a postgraduate diploma in Security Management, an Executive Master in eGovernance and a Ph. D in Management of Technology from the EPFL.

Contact: gmisuraca@gmail.com